EVERYTHING YOU MUST KNOW BEFORE YOU TRAVEL TO RIVIERA MAYA BROUGHT TO YOU BY CARIBBEAN À LA CARTE (CALC):

VISA AND OTHER REQUIRED DOCUMENTS TO GO TO MEXICO

Once in Mexico, at the airport controls you will be required to present:

- Passport with at least six months ahead of validity.
- Visa or Tourist card already issued.
- Health Insurance
- Return ticket (might be an e-ticket). CALC seldom sells international air flights tickets.
- An address of a hotel or private residence you are thinking to stay. Please make sure to inform the location for your hotel or private residence as delivered to you by CALC. This information is available through updated databases countrywide, so any misinformation will be easily detected. If you change your address while in México, legally established hotels have to inform it to immigration authorities, under the law, so that there is no problem for you on your way out of the country.

Gastroenterological diseases:

Nevertheless, tap water is not recommended for regular consume. Tourists are encouraged to drink bottled or boiled water to avoid any issues with respect to water.

BAGGAGE:

Please bear in mind that airplane/airport security measures forbid passengers to carry weapons, sharp objects or inflammable substances in your hand baggage.

ELECTRICITY AND APPLIANCES

Electricity in Mexico comes in the 110 (60 Hz) and 220 volts, although the former is more common than the latter. Most private owned houses and hotels have 220 volts wall sockets in the rooms for your use, nevertheless. The majority of wall sockets are for flat-tipped plugs, although round-tipped ones are increasingly common.

TIPS

For local representatives, tourist guides, bus drivers or hotel staff, tips are discretionary and not compulsory, but much appreciated. In restaurants, tips are often included in the bill and if that is the case, normally it is stated.
